K.A.R. 118-4-4. The fees related to the land survey reference report program were last increased in 1999 and the proposed regulation would increase these fees. Current income covers approximately half of the staff time involved to operate this program, and the increases are intended to make the program self supporting.

Economic Impact: The new fees will enable to Historical Society to recover its costs in administering the land survey reference report program. The land surveyors, who will be impacted by the fee increase, have been notified of the Historical Society's intentions to increase the fees. Their professional organization, the Kansas Society of Land Surveyors, is not opposed to the fee increase.

Notice of Hearings

Section 303d of the Clean Water Act requires states to biennially prepare a list of waters failing to meet state water quality standards. Such waters are required to have total maximum daily loads (TMDLs) prepared by the state to restore their water quality. A total maximum daily load is the maximum amount of the impairing pollutant that can enter the water without causing a violation of its water quality standards. Kansas has developed TMDLs for impaired surface waters in each of the state's 12 river basins. KDHE is now embarking on its second round of TMDL development in the Marais des Cygnes, Missouri, Neosho, Verdigris and Walnut basins. The draft 2006 Kansas 303d list will emphasize waters in those five basins, including an initial designation of TMDLs to be developed over the next two years.

A series of three public hearings on the 2006 Kansas 303d List of Impaired Waters are scheduled October 24-26. KDHE will take testimony on the draft 303d list at the public hearings. The three hearings will be held in the vicinity of the five basins where the state intends to develop TMDLs over 2006-2008. The list and its methodology are available for review on the Internet at: http://www.kdhe.state.ks.us/tmdl/.

The hearings will open with a brief summary of the list and its methodology as it pertains to the waters of the applicable river basin. Public testimony will then be taken after the presentation. Please provide a written copy of any testimony at the hearings. Written testimony will be accepted by KDHE anytime prior to the close of business November 17. KDHE will prepare a response to all public comments and revise the draft list as necessary, and will submit the list, the methodology, the public comments and the KDHE response to Region VII of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency December 15.

The public hearings are scheduled as follows:

October 24 — Ottawa — 2 to 4 p.m. City Commission Chambers, Room 104 City Hall, 101 S. Hickory

October 25 — Neodesha — 2 to 4 p.m. Neodesha Housing Authority, 118 S. 6th St.

October 26 — Topeka — 2 to 4 p.m Heartland Conference Room, 1st Floor Curtis State Office Building, 1000 S.W. Jackson

If accommodations at the hearing locations are needed by persons with disabilities, contact Thomas Stiles, Watershed Planning Section, Suite 420, Curtis State Office Building, 1000 S.W. Jackson, Topeka, 66612, (785) 296-6170, at least five business days before the respective hearing. Other inquiries regarding this notice also should be directed to Thomas Stiles.

Request for Comments

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment is soliciting comments regarding a proposed air quality operating permit. ONEOK Field Services has applied for a Class I operating permit in accordance with the provisions of K.A.R. 28-19-510 et seq. The purpose of a Class I permit is to identify the sources and types of regulated air pollutants emitted from the facility; the emission limitations, standards and requirements applicable to each source; and the monitoring, record keeping and reporting requirements applicable to each source as of the effective date of permit issuance.

ONEOK Field Services, Tulsa, Oklahoma, owns and operates Bradshaw Compressor Station located at Sec. 31, T21S, R40W, Hamilton County, Kansas.

A copy of the proposed permit, permit application, all supporting documentation and all information relied upon during the permit application review process is available for a 30-day public review during normal business hours at the KDHE, Bureau of Air and Radiation, 1000 S.W. Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka; and a copy of the proposed permit can be reviewed at the KDHE Southwest District Office, 302 W. McArtor Road, Dodge City. To obtain or review the proposed permit and supporting documentation, contact Michael J. Parhomek, (785) 296-1580, at the KDHE central office; and to review the proposed permit only, contact Al Guernsey, (620) 225-0596, at the KDHE Southwest District Office. The standard departmental cost will be assessed for any copies requested.

Direct written comments or questions regarding the proposed permit to Michael J. Parhomek, KDHE, Bureau of Air and Radiation, 1000 S.W. Jackson, Suite 310, Topeka, 66612-1366. In order to be considered in formulating a final permit decision, written comments must be received before the close of business November 20.

A person may request a public hearing be held on the proposed permit. The request for a public hearing shall be in writing and set forth the basis for the request. The written request must be submitted to Sherry Walker, Bureau of Air and Radiation, not later than the close of business November 20 in order for the Secretary of Health and Environment to consider the request.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has a 45-day review period, which will start concurrently with the 30-day public comment period, within which to object to the proposed permit. If the EPA has not objected in writing to the issuance of the permit within the 45-day review period, any person may petition the administrator of the EPA to review the permit. The 60-day public petition period will directly follow the EPA's 45-day review period. Interested parties may contact KDHE to determine if the EPA's 45-day review period has been waived.

Any such petition shall be based only on objections to the permit that were raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period provided for in this notice, unless the petitioner demonstrates that it was impracticable to raise such objections within such period, or unless the grounds for such objection arose after such period. Contact Jon Knodel, U.S. EPA, Region VII, Air Permitting and Compliance Branch, 901 N. 5th St., Kansas City, KS 66101, (913) 551-7622, to determine when the 45-day EPA review period ends and the 60-day petition period commences.

Request for Water Quality Information/Data

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment, on behalf of the state of Kansas, is in the process of developing its 2006 List of Impaired Waters, pursuant to Section 303(d) of the Clean Water Act. This list includes the streams, lakes and wetlands in the state that require development of a total maximum daily load in order to attain their water quality standards. As part of the listing process, federal regulations (40 CFR 130.7) require that "all existing and readily available water quality related data and information" be assembled and evaluated in developing the list. Those data include data and information from local, state and federal agencies, members of the public and academic institutions conducting research.

This solicitation requests any data or information on the water quality condition of waters of the state covering the period 2000-2006. Submitted data may include chemical, physical or biological measurements and should be accompanied by information to identify the water body with as much geographic specificity as possible, possible sources of the pollutant causing the impairment and which uses of the water body are being impaired. In order to be considered for evaluation, information also should include any procedures for ensuring quality control and quality assurance of the data provided to KDHE.

KDHE will evaluate any submitted data and information and incorporate appropriate and accurate data into its decision process for listing waters on the 2006 List of Impaired Waters. KDHE decisions on the use of any submitted data will be documented in its submittal of the 2006 list to the Environmental Protection Agency in November. In order to support the listing process, data and information should be submitted to the Watershed Planning Section of KDHE, either as hard copy or electronically, by November 17. Data and information may be directed to Thomas C. Stiles, Watershed Planning Section, Suite 420, Curtis State Office Building, 1000 S.W. Jackson, Topeka, 66612, or via e-mail to tstiles@kdhe.state.ks.us.

Article 51.—HIGH PRESSURE BOILERS

- 49-51-3a. Safety factors for boilers and pressure vessels. The department's inspector shall decrease the working pressure if the condition and safety of the boiler or pressure vessel warrant it. The following safety factors shall represent the minimum values to be used:
- (a) The lowest safety factor permissible on existing boilers and pressure vessels and newly installed boilers shall be 4.0.
- (b) The safety factor shall be eight for horizontal-return tubular boilers that have continuous longitudinal lapseams that are more than 12 feet in length. If this type of boiler is removed from its existing setting, it shall not be reinstalled in a manner that allows the boiler to operate at pressures in excess of 15 psig.
- (c) The lowest permissible safety factor for new pressure vessels shall be no less than 3.5.
- (d) If an existing boiler or pressure vessel is constructed to operate with a higher safety factor than a safety factor required by this regulation, the higher safety factor shall not be lowered for any reason. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-51-6. Safety valves. (a) Weighted-lever safety valves or safety valves that have either a seat or a disk that is made of cast iron shall not be used. The owner, user, or installer of the boiler shall replace any valve of this type of construction, when found, with a direct, spring-loaded, pop-type valve that conforms to the applicable standards of the following:
- (1) ASME code, section I, rules for construction of power boilers, which is adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-1;
- (2) ASME code, section IV, rules for construction of heating boilers, which is adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-5; and
- (3) ASME code, section VIII, rules for construction of pressure vessels, division 1, which is adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-29.
- (b) Each high pressure boiler shall have at least one safety valve that is approved and certified by the ASME and the national board. If the boiler has more than 500 square feet of water-heating surface or an electric power input of more than 500 kw, the boiler shall have two or more safety valves of the same type.
- (c) Each safety valve required in subsection (b) shall be connected to the boiler in a vertical position, shall be independent of any other steam connection, and shall be attached as close as possible to the boiler without unnecessary intervening pipe or fittings. If an alteration is required to conform to this requirement, the owner, user, or installer of the boiler shall be allowed a reasonable period of time in which to complete the work as permitted by the chief inspector.
- (d) No valves of any type shall be placed between the safety valve and the boiler or on any escape pipe. If an escape pipe is used, its size shall be at least the same size of the safety valve discharge, and the pipe shall be fitted with an open drain to prevent water from lodging in the upper part of the safety valve or in the escape pipe. Horizontal escape piping that provides adequate gravity drainage shall not normally require the fitting of an open drain. If an elbow is placed on a safety valve escape pipe, the elbow shall be located close to the safety outlet, or the escape pipe shall be anchored and supported securely. All safety discharges shall be so located or piped to be carried clear of walkways or platforms. If discharge piping is directed downward, the pipe shall terminate no more than six inches above floor level. Plastic discharge piping shall not be used on any safety valve discharge line.

- (e) The safety valve capacity of each boiler shall be sufficient to discharge all of the steam that can be generated by the boiler without allowing the pressure of the boiler to rise more than six percent above the boiler's highest pressure to which any valve is set. The pressure of the boiler shall not be allowed to rise more than six percent above the boiler's maximum allowable working pressure.
- (f) Each boiler shall have one or more safety valves that are set at or below the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler. The remaining valves may be set within a range of three percent above the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler. The range of the settings for all of the safety valves on a boiler shall not exceed 10% of the highest pressure to which any valve is set.
- (g) When two or more interconnected boilers are operating at different pressures and with different safety valve settings, the lower-pressure boilers or the interconnected piping shall be equipped with safety valves that have a sufficient capacity to prevent overpressure, considering the maximum generating capacity of all of the boilers.
- (h) If a boiler is supplied with feedwater directly from water mains without the use of a feeding apparatus, excluding return traps, a safety valve shall not be set at a pressure greater than 94% of the lowest pressure obtained in the water supply main feeding the boiler. The relieving capacity of all of the safety valves on that boiler shall be checked by one of the three following methods, and, if their relieving capacity is found to be insufficient, additional valves shall be provided:
- (1) By making an accumulation test. An accumulation test shall consist of shutting off all other steam discharge outlets from the boiler and forcing the fires to the maximum. The safety valve's relieving capacity shall be sufficient to prevent a rise of pressure in excess of six percent of the boiler's maximum allowable working pressure. This method shall not be used on a boiler with a superheater or reheater;
- (2) by measuring the maximum amount of fuel that can be burned and by computing the corresponding steam-generating capacity upon the basis of the heating value of this fuel. These computations shall be made as outlined in the appendix of the ASME code, section I, which is adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-1; or
- (3) by measuring the maximum amount of feedwater that can be evaporated.

- If either of the methods outlined in paragraphs (h)(1) and (h)(2) is employed, the sum of the safety valve capacities shall be equal to or greater than the maximum evaporative capacity, which is the maximum steam-generating capacity of the boiler.
- (i) Top-discharge safety valves shall not be used on any steam boiler. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective May 1, 1987; amended April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-51-11. Blowoff connection. (a) The construction of the setting around each blowoff pipe shall permit free expansion and contraction. These setting openings shall be sealed without restricting the movement of the blowoff piping.
- (b) All blowoff piping exposed to furnace heat shall be protected by fire brick or other heat-resistant material constructed to provide access to the piping for inspection.
- (c) Each boiler shall have a blowoff pipe that is fitted with a valve or cock that is directly connected to the lowest water space. Each cock shall be a gland or guard cock and shall be suitable for the pressure allowed. Globe valves shall not be used. If the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler exceeds 100 psig, each blowoff pipe shall be provided with either two valves or a valve and a cock.
- (d) If the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler exceeds 100 psig, the portion of the boiler's blowoff piping from the boiler to the valve or valves shall consist of extra heavy steel. The blowoff piping shall be full size, and reducers or bushings shall not be used in the piping. The piping shall not be galvanized.
- (e) All fittings between the boiler and blowoff valve shall consist of steel. If blowoff pipes or fittings are renewed, they shall be installed in accordance with the regulations for new installations contained within these regulations.
- (f) Each blowdown from a boiler or boilers that enters a sanitary sewer system and any blowdown that is determined by the chief boiler inspector to be a hazard to life or property shall pass through some form of blowoff equipment that will reduce pressure and temperature as required in this subsection.
- (1) The temperature of the water leaving the blowoff equipment shall not exceed 140°F.
- (2) The pressure of the blowdown leaving any type of blowoff equipment shall not exceed 5 psig.
- (3) The blowoff piping and fittings between the boiler and the blowoff tank shall meet the requirements of paragraphs PG-58 and PG-59 of the ASME boiler and pressure vessel code, section I, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-1.
- (4) All materials used in the fabrication of boiler blow-off equipment shall meet the requirements of the material specifications in section II of the ASME boiler and pressure vessel code, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-2, K.A.R. 49-45-3, K.A.R. 49-45-4, and K.A.R. 49-45-4a.
- (5) Blowdown tanks shall be constructed to meet the requirements of section VIII of the ASME code, rules for the construction of pressure vessels, division I, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-29, K.A.R. 49-45-30, and K.A.R. 49-45-31.
- (6) All blowoff equipment shall be fitted with openings to facilitate cleaning and inspection.

- (7) All blowoff equipment shall be installed in accordance with "a guide for blowoff vessels," 2004 edition, NB-27, rev. 2, which is hereby adopted by reference. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective May 1, 1987; amended April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-51-12. Repairs and renewals of boiler and pressure vessel fittings and appliances. If repairs are made to any fittings or appliances of a boiler or pressure vessel or if it becomes necessary to replace them, the repairs or replacements shall meet the provisions of the following standards:
- (a) ASME code sections I and VIII, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-1, K.A.R. 49-45-29, K.A.R. 49-45-30, and K.A.R. 49-45-31;

- 49-52-6. Safety relief valve requirements for hot water boilers and hot water supply boilers. (a)(1) Each hot water heating boiler shall have at least one ASME-certified or national board-certified safety relief valve set to relieve at or below the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler. Each hot water supply boiler of the water tube or coil type shall have at least one safety relief valve that is approved and certified by ASME or the national board. The safety relief valve shall be of the automatic reseating type and shall be set to relieve at or below the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler. If the capacity of the safety relief valve is certified by the ASME or the national board, the safety relief valve shall have pop action when tested by steam.
- (2) If more than one safety relief valve is used on either a hot water heating boiler or a hot water supply boiler, the additional valve or valves shall be ASME-rated. The additional valves shall be set to relieve at or below the maximum allowable working pressure of the vessel or any component in the system.
- (3) Each safety relief valve shall be spring-loaded. A safety relief valve shall not be capable of being reset at a higher pressure than the maximum allowable working pressure of the boiler or pressure vessel.
- (b) Materials that can fail due to deterioration or vulcanization when subjected to saturated steam temperatures corresponding to the maximum capacity test pressure shall not be used for safety relief valves.
- (c) A safety relief valve shall not be smaller than ¾ inch or larger than 4½ inches standard pipe size, except that boilers having a heat input not greater than 15,000 BTUH may be equipped with a safety relief valve of ½-inch standard pipe size. The inlet opening shall have an inside diameter that is approximately equal to or greater than the seat diameter. The minimum opening through any - part of the valve shall not be less than ½ inch in diameter or its equivalent area.

- (d) The steam-relieving capacity, in pounds per hour, of each pressure-relieving device on a boiler shall be the greater of the steam-relieving capacity determined by either of the following methods:
- (1) Dividing the maximum output in BTUH by 1,000, where the maximum output is the output obtained at the boiler nozzle by the firing of any fuel the unit is capable of using; or
- (2) using the number of pounds of steam generated per hour per square foot of boiler heating surface as specified in the table in K.A.R. 49-52-5 (d)(1).
- (e) If operating conditions are changed or additional boiler heating surface is installed, the valve capacity shall be increased, if necessary, to meet the new conditions in accordance with subsection (f). The additional valves required because of the changed conditions or additional heating surfaces may be installed on the outlet piping if there is no intervening valve.
- (f) The safety relief valve capacity for each boiler shall be sufficient to prevent the pressure from rising more than 5 psig above the boiler's maximum allowable working pressure with the fuel-burning equipment installed. Each storage water heater and each hot water supply boiler shall have T & P relief valves with a relieving capacity and an American gas association rating that is equal to or exceeds the burner BTUH input or the electrical power kilowatt input. Each hot water supply boiler that is of the coil or water tube type shall be equipped with a safety relief valve. The connecting hot water storage tank shall have a pressure and temperature safety relief valve with a temperature-relieving capacity equivalent to the total burner BTUH input.
- (g)(1) Each safety relief valve shall be installed in a vertical position, except for T & P relief valves that are installed on storage water heaters equipped with side tappings to accommodate the insertion of the T & P valve thermostat. The T & P valve thermostat shall be immersed in the water and located in the top six inches of the vessel. No valve of any type shall be placed between the safety relief valve and the boiler or on the discharge pipe between the safety relief valve and the atmosphere.
- (2) The diameter of the discharge pipe shall not be less than the diameter of the safety discharge opening and shall be fitted with an open drain to prevent water from lodging in the upper part of the safety relief valve or in the discharge pipe. Horizontal discharge piping that provides adequate gravity drainage shall not require the fitting of an open drain, except as specified in this paragraph. If an elbow is placed on the safety relief valve discharge pipe, the elbow shall be located close to the safety relief valve outlet, or the discharge pipe shall be securely anchored and supported.
- (3) All safety relief valve discharges shall be located or piped in a manner that does not endanger persons working in the area. If discharge piping is directed downward, the pipe shall terminate no more than six inches above floor level. Plastic discharge piping shall not be used on any safety relief valve discharge line, including discharge lines for domestic hot water heaters of any size.

- (4) If two or more safety relief valve discharge lines are connected together, the cross-sectional area of the common discharge line shall equal or exceed the combined cross-sectional areas of all of the connected safety relief valve outlets. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective May 1, 1987; amended April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-52-10. Stop valves and check valves. (a) If a boiler can be closed off from the heating system by closing a steam stop valve, there shall be a check valve in the condensate return line between the boiler and the system.

(b) If any part of a heating system can be closed off from the remainder of the system by closing a steam stop valve, there shall be a check valve in the condensate return pipe from that part of the system.

- (c) If multiple steam boilers with manholes are functionally connected to each other through a manifold, each boiler shall have two stop valves with a free blow drain between the two valves. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective May 1, 1987; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-52-14. Repair and replacement of fittings and appliances. (a) If repairs are made to fittings or appliances or if it becomes necessary to replace them, the repairs shall meet the following standards:
- (1) Sections I, IV, and VIII of the ASME code for new construction, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-1, K.A.R. 49-45-5, K.A.R. 49-45-29, K.A.R. 49-45-30, and K.A.R. 49-45-31;
 - (2) ASME CSD-1, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-27;
- (3) NFPA 85, 85A, 85F, and 86, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-37 through K.A.R. 49-45-40; and
- (4) the national board inspection code, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-20.
- (b) Each electrical control and each safety device shall bear a label and shall be listed by a nationally recognized agency, including UL (underwriters laboratories), FM (factory mutual), or AGA (American gas association), and shall bear an identification label from one of these agencies. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective May 1, 1987; amended April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-52-17. Emergency shutoff switches. An emergency shutoff switch shall be installed on each hot water supply boiler, on each boiler of any size that is equipped with power burners, and on each boiler with a BTUH input of 400,000 or more, regardless of burner type. Each heating and power boiler shall have an emergency shutdown switch installed by each exit to meet the requirements of NFPA 70, "national electrical code," 2002 edition, which is adopted by reference, and ASME CSD-1, as

- adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-27. Each boiler with an input of 12,500,000 BTUH or more shall meet the requirements of NFPA 70 and NFPA 85, 85A, 85F, and 86, as adopted in K.A.R. 49-45-37 through K.A.R. 49-45-40. Each emergency shutdown switch shall be marked for easy identification. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective April 28, 2000; amended Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-52-18. Hot water supply boilers. (a) No hot water supply boiler or commercial or domestic type of water heater of any size shall be used for any type of comfort heat. This prohibition shall include floor heat and closedloop hot water heating systems of any kind. Each boiler that is used for heating purposes and is not made of cast iron shall be code-stamped and registered with the national board of boiler and pressure vessel inspectors.
- (b) No hot water heating system shall be connected with any domestic hot water system or be used in combination as a building heating system and domestic hot water system.
- (c) No hot water supply boiler code-stamped "HLW" shall be used for any kind of comfort heat.
- (d) For the purposes of each boiler certification inspection, when a hot water supply boiler is connected to a hot water supply tank, this combination shall be considered one unit.
- (e) Each hot water supply boiler that requires electricity to power burners, to stack dampers, or to start an electronic ignition shall be hardwired into the facility's electrical system. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective Nov. 3, 2006.)
- 49-52-19. Pool heaters. (a) Each pool heater shall have the following controls and safety devices that meet the following requirements:
- (1) A safety relief valve, with a set pressure not to exceed the maximum allowable working pressure of the lowest rated component in the system; and
- (2) a pressure switch or a flow switch that prevents the burner from operating if the circulating pump is not in operation and that maintains adequate temperature controls conforming to the generally acceptable standards for pool heaters.
- (b) Each pool heater that can generate at least 400,000 BTUH shall be constructed to meet the requirements of ASME section IV, as adopted by reference in K.A.R. 49-45-5, and shall be registered with the national board. Each pool heater shall be equipped with the controls and safety devices required for heating boilers. (Authorized by and implementing K.S.A. 44-916; effective Nov. 3, 2006.)
